tional society like ours, however, cannot undertake the immense task of organizing co-operative work in the thousands of cities and tens of thousands of towns in our country. It has neither authority nor degire to intervene in the great questions which vitally concern the various denominations as denominations. We believe that the great Christian bodies in our country should stand together and lead in the discussion of and give an impulse to all great movements that "make for righteousness."

We believe that questions like that of the saloon, marriage and divorce, Sabbath desceration, the social evil, child labor, the relation of labor to capital, the bettering of the conditions of the laboring classes, the moral and religious training of the young, the problem created by foreign immigration and international arbitration—indeed, all great questions in which the voice of the churches should be heard—concern Christians of every name, and church is to lead effectively in the conquest of the world for Christ. It is our conviction that there should be a closer union of the forces and a most effective use of the resources of the Christian churches in the different cities and towns, and, when feasible, in other communities and fields, with a view to an increase of power and of results in all Christian work. The experience of the national federation has made it clear that very many of the churches of the several communitions are ready to tional society like ours, however, cannot undertake come closer together in the common service of the Master. This has led us to raise the question whether a more visible, effective and comprehensive fellowship and effort are not desirable and at-tainable.

order to secure an effective organization of In order to secure an effective organization of the various Protestant communions of this country for the practical ends indicated, we would suggest that a conference of representatives accredited by the national bodies of said Protestant denominations meet in New-York City, November, 1995, to form such a representative organization as may seem proper to them. It is understood that its basis would not be one of creedal statement or governmental form, but of co-operative work and effort. It is also understood that the organization, if formed, shall have power only to advise the constituent bodies rapresented.

The call was responded to with enthusiasm by

The call was responded to with enthusiasm by almost all the evangelical churches. Delegates were apportioned on a basis of the number of communicants of each denomination. The Presby terian, Methodist, Congregational and Baptist churches will have fifty delegates each, while the other churches will have less. Some of the smaller denominations will have only one or two delegates. The delegates have been named in each case by the highest legislative or advisory bodies of the several denominations.

The only serious criticism of the conference has come because of the exclusion of the Unitarians, The governing body of that Church, supposing that it had been intended to invite it to take part appointed delegates, but they were informed that the conference was intended to include only evanmelical churches. The executive committee of the conference was unanimous in making the decision, which was on the ground that many other denominations would not consent to a conference in which the Unitarians took part. It is thought possible that the question may be brought up before the conference.

The churches which will be represented are The churches which will be represented are: Baptist, North and South; Free Baptist, Christian Connection, Congregational, Disciple, Evangelical Association, Evangelical Synod, Friends, Evangelical Intheran, General Synod, Methodist Episcopal and Methodist Episcopal South, Methodist Protestant, African Methodist Episcopal, African Methodist Episcopal Zion, Moravian, Presbyterian, Cumberland Presbyterian, Reformed Presbyterian, United Presbyterian, Protestant Episcopal, Reformed Church in America, Reformed Church in the United States, Egiscopae, Seventh Day Baptist, United Brethren and United Evangelical.

formed Church in America, Reformed Church in the United States, Epformed Episcopal, Seventh Day Baptist, United Brethren and United Evangelical.

The delegates who will meet on Wednesday have, of course, only the power to make recommendations, and any action which may be taken by the conference will have to be referred back to the various constituent denominations for ratification. It is therefore impossible that any permanent results from the conference or any permanent organization can be obtained until a second meeting, which will of necessity be two or three years distant.

The real work of the conference will begin on Thursday and will extend until the night of Tuesday. November 21. Addresses throughout the conference have been limited in most cases to twenty minutes, and many men will be heard. Among the features of the conference will be the meeting in the interests of the young people's societies, which will be held next Sunday afternoon in Carnegie Hall under the ausgices of John R. Mott, general secretary of the World's Student Christian Federation, and the reception on the closing night at the Waldorf-Astoria. Next Sunday morning most of the pulpits in and around New-York will be filled by delegates to the conference and visiting clergymen.

The opening session of the conference, on Wednesday night, will be one of welcome. It will be presided over by J. Cleveland Cady, president of the national federation. A letter of greeting from President Roosevelt will be read, and addresses of welcome are expected from Mayor McCiellan, the Rev. Dr. E. S. Tipple, the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Thompson and the Rev. Dr. Robert S. MacArthur. Others who will take part in the exercises are the Rev. Dr. Joachim Elmendorf, the Rev. Dr. J. B. Rementinyder, Bishop Charles H. Fowler, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and Rishop Burgess, of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

The Thursday morning session will be largely given over to organization, a statement of the purpose of the conference and other necessary business. Dr. Washi

WINTER RELIEF WORK.

Salvation Army Sends Out Plea for This Charity.

The Salvation Army is calling attention to the needs of its winter relief work. The appeal recently sent out, after reciting the special need among the poor at this time of year and during the winter months, says:

The almost invariable rule with the organization is that whatever is done for the poor man must be paid for, either in cash or kind. At the same time we cannot but feel that there are times when this rule should be relaxed, and the poor should be invited to a table "without money and without price." The winter relief work of the army is therefore made an exception to its general rule.

army is therefore made an exception to its general rule.

During these prosperous times it is possible to forget that the unfortunate and needy classes are ever with us. New-York City has its quota of homeless, breadless men, women and children in the very heart of these cltadels of poverty the Salvation Army has its officers placed, who live amid these dark surroundings and are not unfrequently known as "modern aposties of Poverty Row."

This organization last year distributed in New-York more than two hundred thousand pails of coal and gave away thousands of meals; in fact, on one day alone (Christmas Day) twenty-five thousand of New-York City's poor were given a Christmas spread. Thousands of men, women and children were fed and given good warm clothing.

This being the season of the year when it is usual for all wno are able to do so to set aside a certain sum for charitable purposes, we most earnestly suggest that our readers help the Salvation Army in its efforts to relieve the sufferings of mankind in the darkest corners of this city. All contributions, whether large or small, should be marked "Winter Reitef," and addressed to Commander Miss Booth, the Salvation Army, No. 120 West 14th-st.

A CHILDREN'S CHURCH.

Little Ones of West End Presbyterian Have Their Own Organization.

The West End Presbyterian Church, at Amsterdam-ave, and 106th-st., of which the Rev. A. Edwin Keigwin is pastor, has formed a Junior Church, composed of children, officered by children, and with a child choir. The first week two hundred children came together in the chapel, the next week there were three hundred, the next week so many that the service had to be held in the main auditorium, and last week the body of the church was filled and the older folk who came out of curiosity had to take to the galleries.

Mr. Kelgwin keeps the children's interest on the qui vive. At one time it is a stereopticon sermon, at another it is an object sermon, at another a sermon by some child. A hymnal for the children with their own favorites in it has been printed. The children elect their own officers and will issue a monthly paper edited by themselves.

The discipline in the Junior Church is of the best. Monitors are appointed who have each a class of a dozen or fifteen boys or girls, sit among them, mark their presence, keep in close touch with them and report on any who may be sick.

The session of the Junior Church receives members into the Junior Church, but there is no administration of sacraments, neither does membership in the Junior Church. The trustees vote on questions of money, but do not themselves handle any money. The deacons call on those children whom the monitors report as sick, and carry fruit, flowers or a book. at another it is an object sermon, at another a

HOLDS UP ARVERNE GARBAGE PLANT.

Residents of Arverne are rejoicing over a decision handed down by Justice Burr, in the preme Court, Brooklyn, yesterday, which will pre vent the completion of a garbage disposal plant in that suburb. Justice Burr decided that the contract for the works let to William Nolan by President Cassidy of Queens Borough, was illegal, because bids were asked for the building of a plant on the north side of the railroad tracks, while the bid accepted was for the building of a plant on the south side of the tracks.

SAYS TIFFANY SHOULD PAY HIS BILLS. "A man with an income of $18,000 a year ought to pay his bills, and I'll hold him responsible less the law prevents me," said Justice McCall to Burnett Y. Tiffany's lawyer, who wanted the suit of Edward S. Hosmer, trustee in bankruptcy against Tiffany, set aside. Mr. Tiffany transferred all his belongings to his wife, and Hosmer wishes the transfer set aside in interest of Tiffany's debtors.
